Train-the-Training Manager Course

A Training Manager's Challenge: What Happens after a Training?

As the HR or Talent and Development Manager, you surely do conduct paper Evaluation Training with learners upon a course completion. However, what is your Measure of Effectiveness (MOE) after six months or a year? Would you share these common answers?

- It's our weak point for not conducting post-training evaluation.
- I haven't found any tools to evaluate post-training.
- I search for a course in training evaluation.

Now, after 3 years coaching 1,000's of trainers and managers, we proudly offer you the first Train-the-Training Manager course by an American Academy based on innovative researches from Ivy-League universities as Harvard, Stanford, Yale, and University of California.

We Guarantee Results: You Will Gain These Benefits.

- Learn Step-by-Step secrets how to conduct pre-training, training, and post-training activities
- Practice design Content, deliver in Style, connect with all Customers, discover amazing Results
- Define MOE = Return on the Investment (ROI) in term of highest returns for the company
- Change behaviors that training participants must perform to meet MOE
- Include Post-Training activities as a part of course design
- Evaluate training vendors, business partners, and negotiate contracts
- Learn to hire good trainers and coach them to become great trainers
- Understand the training life-cycle: Marketing – Sales – Delivery – Feedback
- Get resource - Review creative PowerPoint presentations
- Fast 5 Special: Get coach by an International Trainer via Skype for one year
